

VirtualArmour Wins $245K Gateway Expansion Deal with Global Satellite Company

July 17, 2019

CENTENNIAL, Colo., July 17, 2019 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- VirtualArmour International Inc. (CSE:VAI) (OTCQB:VTLR), a premier cybersecurity managed services provider, has expanded its security services engagement with a leading global satellite communication company with more than 70 satellites in orbit and gateways around the world. The contract value totals more than $245,000.

This hardware contract was won with high-performance networking solutions from Juniper Networks. This opportunity will build on the $1.7M additional hardware deals that have been closed in the first half of 2019 for this customer.

"We are currently running our most powerful and flexible satellite system that delivers high-capacity, low-latency connectivity across the world," states the Vice President of Network Strategy and IT, from the company. "Our partner, VirtualArmour, has helped us grow our vision over the past 15 years and when we need to add another gateway they are our only choice."

"This client has been a longtime customer of ours and exemplifies the type of customer we focus on as a cornerstone to our growth strategy. Through our partnership we have worked closely together to open gateways all over the globe enabling this satellite provider to become a pioneering force in networking and communications," said VirtualArmour CEO, Russ Armbrust. "The relationship has been built over time and as a trusted advisor we are able to build, monitor and maintain this customer's networks efficiently and in return strengthen their entire security posture one deployment at a time."
